Dr. Stephen Olvey is a pioneer in motorsport safety. As a youthful volunteer at the Indianapolis 500 he witnessed gruesome and often fatal accidents. Dr. Olvey, of UM's Institute for Bioethics and Health Policy and Department of Neurology, helped improve racetrack medical facilities and bring preventive medicine to motor racing.

His book, Rapid Response, has been made into a film. It will be shown here on Zoom at no charge and followed by a Q&A with Dr. Olvey, who will talk about links between ethics and safety.

The film features dramatic footage and interviews with Dr. Olvey and his longtime partner Dr. Terry Trammell, as well as drivers including Mario Andretti, Bobby Unser, Al Unser, Parnelli Jones, and Rick Mears.
