Clinical Ethics: Debates, Decisions, Solutions

Ethical challenges facing health professionals have never been more important or more numerous. From access to care and end-of-life issues to the role of ethics committees, it is clear that bioethics – and bioethics education – must be assigned the greatest possible roles in the daily lives of individual professionals and their institutions.

Course Objectives

Upon completion of this program participants will
- Have a better understanding of the role and importance of bioethics in clinical and institutional decision making, especially regarding access to care, end-of-life issues, the duties of health professionals and pastoral care.
- Be better able to identify ethical challenges and issues in clinical practice, pastoral care, health law and the role of institutional ethics committees.
- Be better able to articulate ethically optimized solutions in clinical and social contexts.

Audience

This course is designed for nurses, physicians, social workers, lawyers, clergy, psychologists, health administrators, philosophers and others with an interest in or a need for continuing education in health ethics.

Accreditation

The University of Miami School of Medicine is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to sponsor continuing medical education for physicians.

Faculty Disclosure

The University of Miami School of Medicine, in accordance with accreditation requirements, will disclose any significant financial interest or other relationship with the manufacturer(s) of any commercial product(s) and/or provider(s) of commercial services discussed in an educational presentation and with any commercial supporters of the activity.

About the Florida Bioethics Network

The Florida Bioethics Network is dedicated to the understanding and resolution of ethical and legal problems arising in health care and research in Florida’s hospitals, hospices, nursing homes, managed care organizations and teaching institutions. The FBN is a program of the Medical Ethics, Law and Humanities Program in the University of Florida College of Medicine, the Forum for Bioethics and Philosophy at the University of Miami, the Division of Medical Ethics and Humanities at the University of South Florida, and Nova Southeastern University. FBN members are entitled to:
- Full access to FBN web site, which includes articles, legislative updates, bioethics news, bioethics resources and useful links;
- Discounted FBN member rates to conferences and workshops;
- Access to the Florida Bioethics Resources Center;
- Correspond on-line with one of the FBN’s professional staff;
- Reduced tuition at the two annual conferences. The next conference will be October, 2000, in North Florida.

Use the conference registration form to join.
