From apoptosis to genetics to cloning, investigators are exploring challenging frontiers of scientific inquiry. But since antiquity, such inquiry has stimulated interest in the question "Are there ethical limits to research and technology?" Prof. Drane will draw examples from the history of science and from current research as he explores the inevitable tension between nature and technology.

Dr. Drane is Russell B. Roth Professor of Clinical Ethics at Edinboro University and the author of numerous articles and books on research and clinical ethics.

Dialogues in Research Ethics is a series of monthly conferences. For more information about the series, phone 243-5723, write to Medical Campus Box M-825 or send E-mail to ethics@newssun.med.miami.edu
