Feminist ethics complements traditional research ethics in a number of ways. These include its emphasis on the analysis of power, its challenge to the active researcher/passive subject model and its rejection of some norms of scientific objectivity. Specific concerns include the under-representation of women and others as investigators, exploitation of subjects in non-therapeutic research and procedures for setting research priorities.

Dr. Fiore, a feminist moral philosopher and bioethicist, is Assistant Professor of Ethics at Florida Atlantic University in Boca Raton.

Dialogues in Research Ethics is a series of monthly conferences. For more information about the series, phone 305-243-5723, write to Medical Campus Box M-825 or send E-mail to ethics@miami.edu
