Human-subjects research is much more than randomized clinical trials. In the social sciences, humanities and other domains, research is increasingly complex – and the rules of consent, risk minimization and confidentiality do not always apply in familiar ways. This Dialogue will feature a discussion of the challenges of research that informs practice and theory in education.

Dr. Braunschweiger is Professor of Radiation Oncology and Director of Research Education.
Dr. Goodman co-directs the University's Ethics Programs..
