The growth of the international research enterprise has been fueled in part by multinational drug and device makers. While this research contributes to medical progress, it also comes at a price: There is increased concern about undue incentives to investigators, conflicts of interest and exploitation of Latin America's vulnerable health sector.

Dr. Litewka is an Argentine-trained surgeon and a visiting scholar at UM's Ethics Programs. He is working on several projects related to healthcare reform and international research ethics and education.

Dialogues in Research Ethics is a series of monthly conferences. For more information, phone UM Ethics Programs at 305-243-5723 or send E-mail to ethics@miami.edu.
